New Footpath Planned to West Falls Church Metro Station

Pimmit Hills residents might soon enjoy faster bike and pedestrian access to the West Falls Church metro station, if a new WMATA proposal to build a path on Idylwood Road gets legs.

The project—which would include constructing a new pedestrian/cyclist bridge across Pimmit Run watershed on Redd Road—could cut the walking distance for residents by up to one mile and eliminate the need to walk along Route 7.

At Fairfax County's request for improved pedestrian access to Metrorail, WMATA has conducted a feasibility study for "a pedestrian/bike trail connecting the Pimmit Hills neighborhood to the north entrance of the West Falls Church Station."

"The entrance to the trail would be located on the Idylwood Road and will follow the path of the security fence between the SI Yard and I-66 right-of-way."

The dark line on the map to the right shows the approximate location of the proposed north side pedestrian access to West Falls station.

Currently, direct Pimmit Hills pedestrian access to the metro and to Idylwood Road is cut by the Pimmit Run watershed that crosses Redd Road (shown by the arrow on the map to the right).

As part of the proposal, officials have suggested adding a pedestrian/cyclist-only bridge to join Pimmit Hills to Idylwood Road and the new path to the metro.

The Pimmit Hills Citizen's Association would like your input on the Fairfax/Wmata proposal. Do you support the project?

Pimmit Hills 'National Night Out' – Success Again!

Pimmit Hills' third annual National Night Out was another great success!

Thank you to Safeway for the ice cream donation and everyone that provided a cake for the cake walk.

Dranesville District Supervisor John Foust was also there speaking with residents.

The McLean Police Department brought toys, games, and even a fire truck to the event, which was held on the corner of Hileman Road and Friden Drive.

The police kicked off the event by circling the block party by helicopter!

Pimmit Hills boasts one of the largest National Night Out events in the region.

As a result, the PHCA board is looking for more volunteers next year.
